The Company

LAACMA Consulting, a boutique management consulting firm founded by a Upenn alumni in 2003, is looking to hire several interns for the summer of 2010. The individual would be part of a consulting team onsite at the client in southern CA. Moreover, the individual would work directly with the client to develop deliverables and gather the data needed to perform key analysis. Please read below for additional details regarding the opportunity.

Industry

Pharmaceutical company

Project(s) description

Work with various departments on various strategic and operational effectiveness initiatives. These include redesigning processes, conducting outsourcing optimization analysis, developing sales forecasting models, developing 5yr strategic plan, and ensuring the effective implementation of various systems are among the projects available to work on. Ideal candidate would have the following skill sets and experiences:

- Experience in the consulting and/or pharmaceutical industry is preferred but not required
- Experience working in fast paced dynamic team within a deadline driven environment
- Ability to take large tasks and break it down into smaller parts in order to effectively execute
- Creating sophisticated excel models e.g. sale forecast models, financial models, etc.
- Creating and delivering PowerPoint presentations to senior level executives
- Ability to develop strategic frameworks to solve complex problems
- Ability to facilitate large group meetings

Compensation

This is a paid internship.

If interested please e-mail your resume and cover letter to Cristian Acosta, acosta_cristian@laacmaconsulting.com