DP is recruiting columnists and bloggers for its Opinion Page next semester. During the recruitment process, we try to get a diverse field of writers who represent all facets of the Penn community. We wanted to reach students in Penn Graduate Women in Science and Engineering because your members might be able to provide unique perspectives on Penn issues.

Got an opinion about issues relevant to Penn students? Are you witty or insightful? Do you have an original, interesting viewpoint that you'd like to share with the rest of Penn (and/or the Internet)? Come write for The Daily Pennsylvanian opinion section! Apply for a print column or an online blog position and get your commentary, serious or not, out to thousands of people a week. We're looking for talented people of all kinds to inform, amused, and comment upon all aspects of Penn life.

Apply online at http://www.dailypennsylvanian.com/opinion. Contact Ashwin Shandilya at shandilya@dailypennsylvanian.com with questions.
